

Robert Mack

December 13, 1959 - July 14, 2020

Robert Mack was born on December 13, 1959 to Mary and Robert P. Mack in Midway, Alabama.

Robert was born with special needs and attended the Ada McKinley School for Special Needs Children. Even though Robert had special circumstances, he was full of life. He brought joy to our hearts. He had a photographic memory and was able to sing the Kingdom Melodies without a songbook and sang louder than anybody else.

He loved music, especially old dusties and he loved dancing to them. Most of all, he loved Jehovah and going to the Kingdom Hall, especially conventions. His favorite book was My Book of Bible Stories.

Once he was dressed and ready to go to the meetings, he would put on his jacket, and whoever was around him, he would ask "How do I look?" He did not just take your word for it, he would look in the mirror and say "I look cool!"

Robert fell asleep in death on July 14, 2020. His father Robert P. Mack, preceded him in death as well as his brother, Leonard; his grandparents, Aaron and Nettie Robbins and Walter and Jesse Mack; and his nephews Michael Evans Jr. and Tyree Mack.

He leaves to cherish his memories, his mother, Mary; sisters Joann Robbins, Cynthia (Calvin) Watson, Sandra Mack, Barbara (James) Exson, Patricia (Flamingo) Jones, Sharon Mack and Juanita Mack; brothers Walter Mack, Michael (Sylvia) Mack, and Eric (Tiffany) Mack; and a host of uncles, aunts, nieces, nephews, and cousins.

Robert also leaves behind a good friend that he loved dearly, Paul Sydnor, and his favorite dance partner Teres Norman, along with many other dear friends.
