

Carolyn J. Wilkins

March 2, 1952 - December 10, 2013

Carolyn J. Wilkins was born March 2, 1952 to the parents of Daisy and Milton. Carolyn was the eldest of five children.

Carolyn received her education from the Chicago Public School System, graduating from DuSable High School, where Carolyn pursued music, enjoying playing the saxophone. In her spare time, Carolyn would show off her talents on how she mastered playing the saxophone to her family and friends. Carolyn also attended Loop College, studying in the field of Drama. Later in life Carolyn was blessed with two beautiful children, Anteria and David McAuthor.

Carolyn was employed at the State of Illinois Department of Public Aid for 32 years until her untimely death.

Carolyn was very opinionated and strong willed. Carolyn was very eager at times to state her opinions to others, whether she was right or wrong, but in Carolyn's eyes, she was never wrong. This is what made Carolyn's character so humorous to her family and friends.

Carolyn knew at an early age about Jehovah God's Bible teaching that "death would be a thing of the past and a promise of resurrection in the near future.

(Rev. 21:4)

On December 10, 2013, Carolyn fell asleep in death. She was preceded in death by her mother, Daisy Carlisle and daughter, Anteria.

Carolyn leaves to cherish her memory, her son, David; grandson; Aric White III, brothers, Steven and Milton; sisters, Felicia Fields (Bobby) and Marcella Carlisle; two nephews, Kevin and Caleb; two nieces, Nicole and Jasmine; and a host of cousins, other relatives and friends.
