

Mr. Demetrius Lonzell Kennedy Wess-Brown

April 25, 1995 - November 29, 2021

Demetrius Lonzell Kennedy Wess-Brown was born on April 25th, 1995, to his mother Dora C. Wess-Brown, and his father Stephen Taylor.

Demetrius was a charming and adventurous child with a big smile and even bigger heart. His magnetic personality made it easy for him to make friends, and often become the center of attention. The ability to light up a room with his very presence, was something that came naturally to him.

He attended both Parker Community Academy and Chicago Vocational High School, where he excelled at academics and had aspirations to pursue the culinary arts once he graduated. Demetrius was accepted by Kennedy-King College and briefly attended, but like many students, Demetrius decided to hold off on his education until he had a solid plan going forward.

During this time, Demetrius confessed his faith as both he and his sister Stacey, joined Antioch Missionary Baptist Church. Following in the footsteps of his mother Dora who was returning to the church, and his brother John who was also a member. He was passionate about his spirituality and never missed an opportunity to worship and serve.

When he wasn't working or going to church, Demetrius used his free time to become a gaming content creator, known as "DemiGodReviews". Using his quick wit, analytical mind, and high skill level, he amassed a large following across his social media platforms. When he wasn't producing videos and livestreams, he would contribute to various podcasts, and write reviews for online publications, such as LV1 Gaming.

On Monday, November 29th, 2021. God asked Demetrius to rest and join his sister in the kingdom above. He will be mourned and never forgotten much like his brother Jacaré, and his sister Stacey who preceded him in death.

He is deeply mourned and survived by his mother Dora C. Wess-Brown; his brother John Fitzgerald Kennedy Brown Jr.; his sister Jonte Taylor; his father Stephen Taylor (Ruthie); his God Mother Rochelle Easton; his Special family member Lady Atterberry; and a host of other relatives and friends.
