My Granny Ice always smiled so big and bright whenever she seen me. I know in my heart how special her love for me was. She taught me so much and I will miss her dearly. I'm posting these old photos from a trip my mother took my brother and I on, back to Chicago, I can remember seeing all the tall buildings and thinking how amazing the city was because it was nothing like California. A memory I have from this visit was one that my Granny Ice would never let me forget. My little brother being a toddler at the time, I believe I was around 5 or 6 in age, he kept getting in trouble by Granny because he was trying to leave out the small gate around her patio area, where she told us to play. She spanked him for not listening, and me being my brothers keeper and best big sister ever, told Granny Ice that "she spanked him too hard and my mommy doesn't spank him like that." Haha. She said she told me "look here little missy, your brother isn't listening and so that is why I spanked him and your mommy is my daughter," so pretty much I better recognize who I was talking too because Granny would spank whoever she wanted big or small. I laugh whenever I tell the story because she would always tell me no matter how much my brother and I get into it we are family and we have to stick together, no matter what, and protect one another, as we always have. She could always see my potentials and strength and for that I am forever great full for her love, religion, and guidance. I now have my two Grandmothers watching over me and my beautiful family. Until we meet again. I will always love you. -Candy
