Jean Harlow Layne White was born on February 19, 1939, in Gregory Arkansas to Denormies and Helen Louise Layne. She was the second of eight children.

Jean was introduced to George Edward White . Their relationship blossomed to the point of marriage

On October 20, 1961. They built a life together with their treasured daughter Deborah Lejewell. Jean and Deborah were inseparable.

Jean began studying the Bible with Jehovah's Witnesses and in May 1960, she dedicated her life to Jehovah by water baptism. For many years, Jean enjoyed the privilege of serving Jehovah at the Crescent Park Congregation of Jehovah's Witness's in Chicago Illinois. She opened her home for Bible Study meetings which were discontinued. She was known for her gracious hospitality. Although Jehovah blessed Jean, she never would think too much of herself. What motivated her was not a desire for self importance, but a deep love for Jehovah and love for others.

Jean was employed by the old Illinois Bell Company (now known as AT&T) from high school graduation to retirement.

One of the greatest highlights of Jean's life was when her only grandchild, Bryana Bibbs, was born.

Jean loved decorating and shopping for her home. She also enjoyed working in the yard, planting and taking care of her flowers. Jean also loved the family trips to Florida. She was like a second mother to her siblings and they all loved her as such.

Jean fell asleep in death on August 25, 2024.
