

Lance Clemons

July 24, 1947 - January 6, 2013

Lance Clemons was born July 24, 1947 in Chicago, Illinois to the union of Edgar Jr and Ellen Rosalee Clemons.

Lance as a very smart and intelligent man, he was a sharp dresser, very neat and organized man, who loved his sharp hats. He had a clean style, which was complimented by everyone he came across.

He attended Tilden Technical High School and graduated in June 1965, a very renowned school, and worked in the printing industry for 30 years.

Lance studied the Bible and symbolized his dedicated to Jehovah in 1986. From his study of the Bible he learned it never was God's purpose for man to grow old get sick and die. The Bible promises a wonderful hope that one day, very soon the whole earth is going to be a paradise. Yes, right here on earth, which was Jehovah God's original purpose. The Bible speaks about a wonderful hope of a resurrection for our dead loved ones, which we will see them again on earth. (Acts 24: 15) This is what Lance Clemons believed in, and is now waiting for to see his entire family in this promised new paradise where no one will say, ' I'm sick'. If you have access to the internet I encourage you to visit the website, jw.org, so you can benefit and learn more about our God Jehovah purposes, and learned for yourself, what Lance Clemons believed and put faith in.

On January 6, 2013, Lance fell asleep in death. He was preceded in death by his father, Edgar Clemons Jr.; his mother, Ellen Rosalee Clemons; and his sisters, Diana Clemons-Walden and Leontyne Clemons.

Lance leaves to cherish his memories, his wife, Delores Clemons; sons, Joshua Clemons and Lance Clemons Jr.; daughter, Tiffany; sisters, Liona (Lloyd) Bryant and Cynthia Corely; brother, Darwin Clemons; nieces and nephews, Latonya Denine, Uhonest, Diamond, Cheyenne, Shannon, Amber, Darwin (D.C), Kenneth Jr, and Christopher; and a host of aunts, uncles, cousins and many friends. We will love you and miss you until we see you again.

Love, Delores and Joshua Clemons
