

Mrs. Stacy Carnell Patterson

April 3, 1964 - April 25, 2021

Stacy Patterson was born Stacy Carnell Reid on April 3, 1964 in Chicago, IL to her parents, Howard Daniel Reid and Mary Louise Reid. She was the 2nd child of 4 born out of that union.

Stacy graduated from Percy L. Julian High School on Chicago's South Side in 1982. She would fondly speak of the school's regarded arts, theatre and prestigious sports program during that time. Stacy was known for her loving and caring attitude, easy going personality, and her gift of gab. She touched the lives of many and assisted many families in times of need. Stacy enjoyed spending time with family. A family favorite was a card game affectionately known as "squeak". She liked crocheting various items, was an official "House Head" enjoying listening to Chicago House Music, but was primarily known as a skater. It was her passion. Especially on the JB's (James Brown) night, you would find her on the skating rink floor front and center no matter what. She was an artistic, industrious, and hardworking woman. Stacy would engage in many do-it-yourself projects around the house with her own artistic flare, she took pride in her work.

That same work ethic she also applied to her secular work as well, where she became a valuable employee to Aldi Foods in a supervisory role for many years. From there, she transitioned into the construction trades, where she finished her career as a Journey-woman Electrician as a member of the IBEW

Local 134 in Chicago.

What really defined Stacy's life was her faith and personal relationship with her God Jehovah. She embraced the teachings of the Bible, what it says about Jehovah, and His promises for the future. This motivated her, along with her mother, to both dedicate their lives to Jehovah God and symbolized that dedication through water baptism on October 4th, 1980. Her love for Jehovah grew so strong that it moved Stacy with zeal to do more in service to him. She soon decided to become a regular pioneer, devoting more time in the preaching and teaching work with her spiritual family. Her zeal and love for Jehovah moved her to become the spiritual nurturer of the family and to have a self-sacrificing spirit. Stacy was instrumental in taking a vested interest in helping her younger brothers and niece to learn about Jehovah, become baptized, and develop a personal relationship with him. After many years, she even persuaded her father to rekindle a love for Jehovah. Stacy's desire was that everyone would come to know Jehovah, so she spent many hours talking to family and neighbors, personally assisting and studying with persons. Even when she couldn't physically be in the ministry, it was her pioneering spirit that helped her endure various trials and resolve to remain faithful to Jehovah.

It would be most fitting, that in the field ministry Stacy would meet her future husband, Elbert Patterson. It was their chance meeting that sparked a loving relationship that culminated into them being married on January 22nd, 2011. Jehovah blessed that union; Elbert was the crowning jewel of her life. Stacy became "G-ma" to 11 grandchildren whom she loved and adored as well as their parents of Elbert's children and family. Stacy and Elbert Patterson enjoyed 10 full years of a joyful marriage, until her falling asleep in death on Sunday April 25th, 2021. She now awaits Jehovah's promise of the resurrection hope as recorded at John 5: 28, 29.

Stacy leaves to cherish her memories, her loving husband Elbert Patterson.

“ Stacy has always been a part of our family growing up. She is my big sister. Mom and Stacy would spend hrs in the ministry. We walked the streets, the bus depots and parking lots preaching. I remember hanging out with Kevin and Marc at they house while they would teach us the new dance moves. Stacy could dance, but not like her brothers lol..... Stacy was always smiling. The most easy going, kindest person to be around. Once you see her smile, you'll never forget it. I look forward to seeing that infectious smile again in paradise.

“ When Stacy was first learned how to drive, she purchased a white Vette. Chevette that is. And Dad was teaching her how to drive. Kevin and I rode in the back. And there wasn't enough seat belts to go around. Now Stacy was a safe driver. A little too safe if you asked me. At the end of the lesson she had to parallel park. Now you would have thought that parallel parking was her mortal enemy. After 20 minutes Kevin and I begged dad to release us from this imprisonment. He said no. It was far more important to show your sister support than going outside and playing with your friends who were right there in front of the house. I said, "Dad, she started driving around 3 o'clock this afternoon. It's getting dark out and mom doesn't want us out after the street lights come on. Please dad. I'm about to be eligible for social security at this rate. Eventually Stacy figured it out. She successfully parked the car and we walked to the curb. Gooooood gravey...

Love you Stacy
